The international conference is funded by the Alfried Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach-Stiftung, Essen, the Interdisciplinary Centre for Baltic Sea Region Research (IFZO), Greifswald and the German Research Foundation, Bonn. The Alfried Krupp Wissenschaftskolleg is an academically independent institution sponsored by the Stiftung Alfried Krupp Kolleg

The Baltic Sea Region consists predominantly of rural spaces. However, current research on the area focuses strongly on centers and neglects the specific chances and challenges of rural regions. Most researchers (and politicians) address the rural areas from the perspective of the urban centers and see rural, peripheral regions as vulnerable. However, rurality is not primarily a deficit (e.g. poor infrastructure, ageing populations, migration), but a future potential for tourism, environmental health and innovation. Consequently, it is time to reflect on the chances, opportunities and challenges of rural regions in the respective countries and develop a new mind-set of "Think Rural".

Scientists from different academic fields (e.g. healthcare, law, economics, geography, theology, arts) will meet from 23rd to 25th of March 2023 in Greifswald to develop this new mind-set and analyze common structures and characteristics of rurality in their professions. The interdisciplinary working groups "Think Rural" and "Baltic Sea Research" (IFZO) of the University of Greifswald will meet with colleagues from all Baltic Sea countries in order to practice "Think Rural", gain new insights and start new research collaborations.
